CASE STUDY

Project: Temporary Doctors Surgery
Location: Ely, Cambridgeshire
Hire Period: 1 year

Overview

St Mary's Surgery provides comprehensive NHS healthcare to the people of Ely & local villages in Cambridgeshire. With over 16,000 patients and a growing local population redevelopment of the surgery was needed to meet the increasing demand for healthcare services. During the 12 months period of building work the surgery was to relocate to a nearby hospital but because of insufficient facilities at the hospital a temporary building was needed.

Our Solution

Following extensive research the management of the surgery contacted Pickering's and a healthcare specialist visited to provide advice on the best solution. A building was designed to meet the requirements of the surgery. Subsequently, Pickering's was awarded the contract to provide temporary facilities to ensure business continuity.

Whilst preparation of the building modules got underway Pickering's completed the groundworks and building foundations on a greenfield area of the hospital site. Following safe delivery and installation of 16 modules the temporary modular building was handed over to the surgery within weeks. Additional products and services from the Pickering's+ range were provided including intruder alarm; fire alarm; air conditioning; emergency lighting and data cabling.

"We have been very impressed with the service provided by Pickering's from our initial enquiry right through to handing over of the building. The overall quality of the building is excellent."
