

Site Connect

DATA SHEET

When your Pickering's portable cabin or modular building has been delivered and installed it's ready for immediate use once you've connected to mains services. Unless you're using a Pickering's generator you'll need to connect to mains electrics and, if relevant, water supply and drainage as well.

Features & Benefits

- We can arrange to make the necessary connections to your mains power, water supply and drainage to save you time and hassle.
- We'll visit your site prior to building installations to assess your requirements and ensure the right connections are made.
- All electrical cables and necessary equipment required will be connected from the supply mains to the electrical installation of the consumer unit in your building, as required.
- Drainage services will be tailored to your requirements with the system and method we provide being dependent on the infrastructure of your site along with the situational requirements of the project.
- Rest assured all connections are made by suitably qualified professionals for your peace of mind.
- Every site is unique with different requirements so benefit from our experience where we can provide site utility connections sites of all sizes.
- As soon as we've completed the utility connections and building hand-over you'll be ready to go.
- Site utility connections are available from all Pickering's depots nationwide.
